

Approved by Academic Senate March 3, 2020 : Cal State East Bay envisions a future that ensures environmental integrity, economic vitality, and a just society for present and future generations and graduates who will be able to act responsibly and sustainably at local, national, and global levels and in their personal and professional lives.
	4	3	2	1

Identification and description of key threats to environmental sustainability (between local and global) and economic/social opopoinab-ifEn

			Some significant gaps in application and/or evidence	Major gaps, unclear or not relevant
Analysis and explanation of how social factors (e.g. historic/political/cultural) affect sustainability from different stakeholder perspectives with supporting examples/evidence.	Skillfully and logically addresses all aspects of this category	Minor gaps in analysis, explanation or evidence	Some significant gaps in analysis, explanation and/or evidence	Major gaps, unclear or not relevant